

Global Relay Archive

FOR ICE CHAT (formerly YellowJacket)

Global Relay Archive for ICE Chat brings the benefits of software-as-a-service message archiving to the ICE Chat community. This cloud-based service securely and automatically archives every ICE Chat message sent to, from or among the traders in your firm – providing compliance, control and convenience.

Industry legislation regulations such as CFTC Rule 23.202, SEC Rule 17a-4, and FINRA Rule 3110 require electronic business communications to be archived and monitored – including trading and messaging platforms such as ICE Chat. Global Relay Archive for ICE Chat securely captures and preserves all ICE Chat messages – allowing your firm to comply with these requirements.

How It Works

Daily, Global Relay automatically and securely downloads a copy of all your firm's new ICE Chat messages via HTTPS. Global Relay Archive then indexes and archives each message for search and retrieval purposes.

As the messages enter the Archive, they are time-date stamped, serialized and written to tamperproof storage to meet compliance requirements. ICE Chat messages are automatically routed to an ICE Chat system folder in Global Relay Archive for easy online access and identification. Once preserved in Global Relay Archive, ICE Chat messages can be searched and reviewed along with any additional message types in your archive (email, instant messaging, Bloomberg®, social media etc.).
